Paul Van Valin, PhD is a Licensed Clinical Psychologist since 1985. A Preacher's Kid, he was raised in the church and has always functioned with a distinctively Christian professional identity. He was an Army Psychologist from 1982 to 1987. In 1989 he began conducting marriage workshops with his wife, Becky. He founded Eden Counseling Center in 1995, Eden Family Institute in 1996 and co-founded FirstFruits Crisis Response in 2001 after the World Trade Center attacks. He established Eden's Intensive Assessment and Consultation Teams in 2006. Dr. VanValin was the Executive Chair of the Franklin Graham Festival in 2007 and is a valued partner in ministry by hundreds of pastors and ministry leaders in the U.S. and Europe. Dr. VanValin has extensive training and experience in critical stress and psychological trauma. His personal mission is to help people find their true identity and to live as if they believe.

Practice Development Coach

Dr. VanValin has mentored dozens of mental health clinicians; many now own their own successful practices. He is a developer of leaders and a builder of teams. He develops unique service delivery models such as the Counseling Assistance Program and Intensive Assessment and Consultation. He brings 30 years of professional success, training and mentoring to Practice Development.

Personal Development Coach

Dr. VanValin has coached and counseled dozens of leaders through transitions, crises, and conundrums. He understands ministry, business and military cultures having been involved in each for substantial segments of his life. The coaching process begins with assessment of personality, cognitive and social strengths and weaknesses, and capacity to accomplish desired goals. Interventions are tailored to the goals of the individual.

Marriage and Family Coaching

Leaders face unique distractions and challenges. Balancing ministry/business success with marriage and family success requires strategic approaches in all spheres of life. Dr. VanValin has helped hundreds of marriages and families move from broken to thriving, lifeless to vibrant, average to excellent. His Four Session Marriage Counseling/Coaching model is a brief, strategic change agent for marriages.
